Our Social Responsibility

India has had a long, rich history of close business involvement in social causes for national development. It began with the industrial houses supporting the freedom movement. After Independence, industrialists like JRD Tata pointed out that there were many ways in which industrial and business enterprises could contribute to public welfare beyond the scope of their normal activities. Since then, there has been a growing realization towards contribution to social activities with a desire to improve the immediate environment. Shri Dutt Foundation believes that an ideal CSR has both ethical and philosophical dimensions, particularly in India where there exists a wide gap between sections of people in terms of income and standards.
